Acknowledgements

- This presentation is based on material covered in Peer Assisted Learning Strategies: Reading Methods for Grades 2-6 2008 Revised Edition by Douglas Fuchs, Lynn S. Fuchs, Deborah Simmons, & Patricia Mathes
- Contributors to the presentation include Kristin Taylor, Devin Kearns, Loulee Yen, Kristen McMaster, and Laura Saenz

The header features a row of six images: a stack of books, a row of colored pencils, a geometric shape, and the letters P, A, L, and S each in a separate colored square. The word 'Objectives' is overlaid in white text on the geometric shape and the 'P' and 'A' squares.

Objectives

- After today's session, you will be able to:
  - Describe PALS and its research base
  - Identify benefits of PALS
  - Identify PALS components and activities
  - Pair students and make PALS seating arrangements
  - Schedule PALS
  - Prepare PALS materials and select appropriate texts

Peer

Learning

Strategies

What is PALS?

- A class-wide peer tutoring program

First Reader (Stronger reader, reads first)

Second Reader
(Weaker reader, “Coaches” first)

What is PALS?

- A supplement to core reading instruction
- Focus is on reading fluency and...

COMPREHENSION

I understand

Why Does PALS Work?

- PALS allows you to differentiate instruction
  - Students read texts at the right level
  - Students get help when they need it

Why Does PALS Work?

- Students practice reading a lot!
  - Structure
  - Efficiency
  - Routines are the same throughout program
  - Students stay on task

PALS Research

What research has been conducted?

What does it say?

PALS Development

- Doug & Lynn Fuchs (Vanderbilt University) and colleagues:
  - >15 years of experimental research

PALS Development

- Researchers have found effects for students
  - From high poverty and middle-class schools
  - From urban, suburban, and rural settings
  - Of all skill levels (high, average, and low)
  - With disabilities
  - Learning English as a Second Language

PALS Effects in Reading

PALS Research Conclusions

- PALS students reliably outperform controls on important reading outcomes
- Works best when done with fidelity
- Works best when students receive a full “dose”

PALS Basics

Four Activities

The header features a dark background with several educational icons: a stack of books, a set of colored pencils, and a folded piece of paper. To the right, the letters 'D', 'A', 'I', and 'S' are displayed in large, bold, white font, each enclosed in a colored square (green, red, brown, and blue respectively).

What are the basic elements?

- Four reading activities in pairs
  - Partner Reading – 10 min
  - Retell – 2 min
  - Paragraph Shrinking – 10 min
  - Prediction Relay – 10 min
- “Points” system for motivation
  - Student level
  - Teacher level

Getting Started

Assigning Pairs

Higher-Performing Readers (HP)	Lower-Performing Readers (LP)	Pairs
Top HP	Top LP	A
2 nd HP	2 nd LP	B
3 rd HP	3 rd LP	C
4 th HP	4 th LP	D
5 th HP	5 th LP	E
6 th HP	6 th LP	F
7 th HP	7 th LP	G
8 th HP	8 th LP	H

Assembling Pairs

- Use the pairing system flexibly
  - The First Reader is always higher in reading skill level than the Second Reader
  - The difference between the two students in a pair should not be TOO great

Assembling Pairs

- Focus on pair dynamics
- To determine who will be paired together:
  - Results from reading assessments
  - Intuition and opinion of reading and cooperating ability
- Pairs work together for 4 weeks

Pair Management

- Maintain flexibility
- Give a pair at least 1 week to “get along”
- You may change some pairs before the 4 weeks are up

Using Triads

- If numbers are odd or you have absences, a triad (group of 3) may be necessary
- Make the triad an average-to-high achieving group

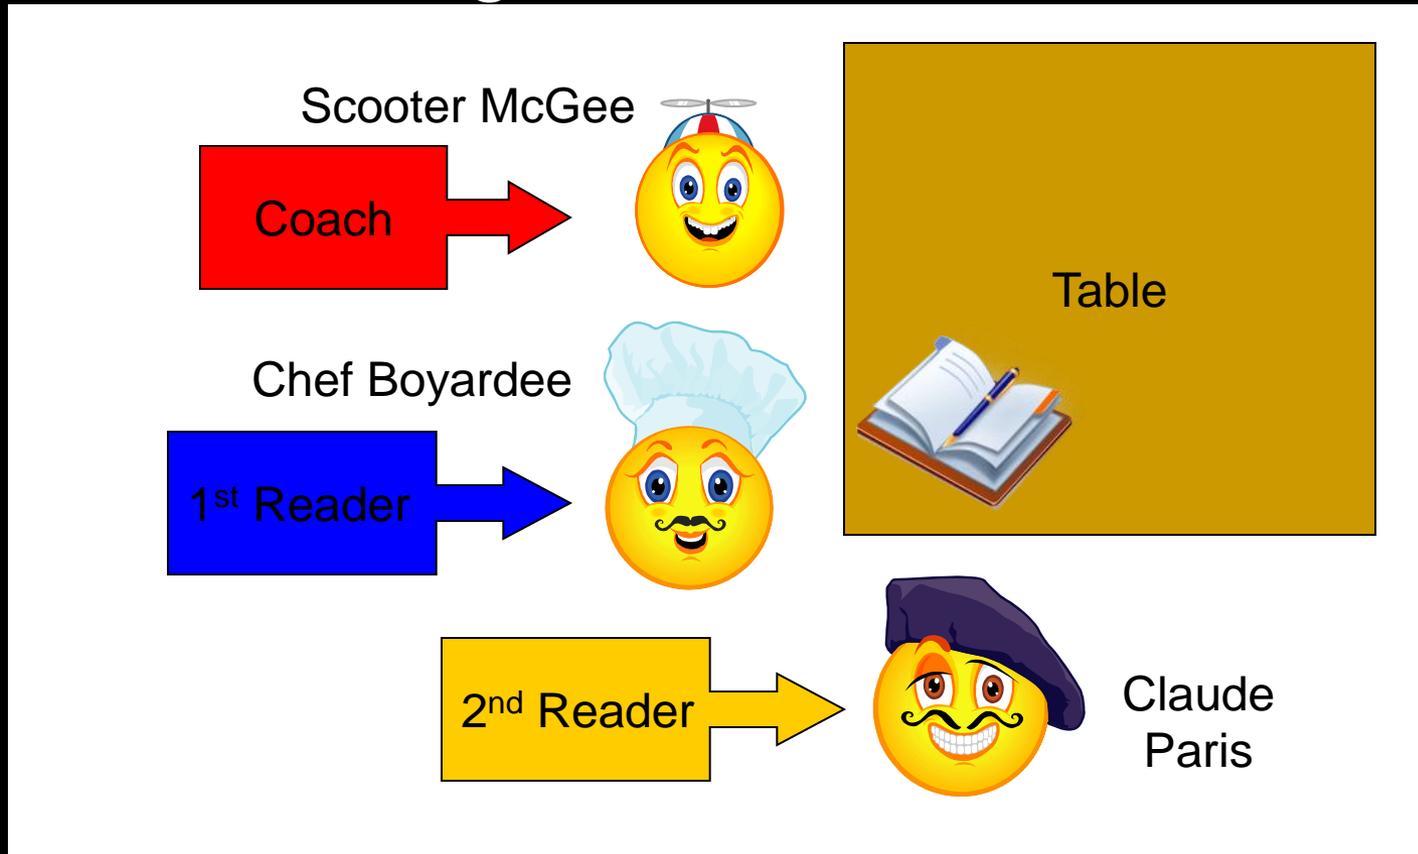

The background banner features a collage of school supplies on the left, including a stack of books and several pencils. To the right, the word "PAIRS" is written in large, bold, colorful letters, each letter contained within a square frame of a different color: P (green), A (red), I (brown), R (blue), and S (blue).

Why are Pairs Better than Triads?

- In a pair, each student reads  $1/2$  of the time
- In a triad, each student only reads  $1/3$  of the time

How Triads Look

- Partner Reading & Retell

How Triads Look

- Paragraph Shrinking

How Triads Look

- Prediction Relay

- PALS points accumulate toward a team total
- Pairs report points to you and you total the team points
- The second place team gets applause
- The winning team gets applause and takes a bow

Making Teams Fair

- What's wrong with this?

3 rd HP	3 rd LP	C
4 th HP	4 th LP	D
5 th HP	5 th LP	E
6 th HP	6 th LP	F
7 th HP	7 th LP	G
8 th HP	8 th LP	H

Making Teams Fair

- Why is this better?

3 rd HP	3 rd LP	C
4 th HP	4 th LP	D
5 th HP	5 th LP	E
6 th HP	6 th LP	F
7 th HP	7 th LP	G
8 th HP	8 th LP	H

Making Teams Fair

- Balance the teams
  - Pairs A, D, E, H are one team
  - Pairs B, C, F, G are one team
- What if there is an odd number of teams?
  - The highest team gives their points to both teams and they will be on the winning team
  - Pairs B, E are one team
  - Pairs C, D are one team
  - Pair A is on both teams

Seating Arrangements

- Assign partners to sit together all the time.
  - This eliminates the need for movement before and after each PALS session
- If partners do not sit together, designate one student as the “Mover” and one as the “Stayer.”
  - The Mover picks up the materials on his or her way.

Scheduling PALS

- Implement PALS:
  - 2-3 times per week
  - 35-45 minutes per session
  - for at least 16-18 weeks
- Implement PALS at a regular time.
  - Same time each day.
  - Same days each week.

The header features a dark background with a row of six icons: a stack of books, a row of pencils, a blue and yellow geometric shape, a green square with a white 'P', a red square with a white 'A', a brown square with a white 'L', and a blue square with a white 'S'. The text 'Scheduling PALS' is overlaid in white, bold, sans-serif font.

Scheduling PALS

- To implement PALS teachers have:
  - Replaced part of their teacher directed instruction
  - Replaced independent seat work time
  - Implemented PALS during their regular reading instruction time
  - Implemented PALS during content area instruction (e.g., science, history)

Setting Up Your Classroom

- PALS Display (e.g., on a bulletin board)
  - Pairs & Teams Assignment Chart
  - PALS Rules
  - Score Board

Preparing PALS Materials

- Teacher Materials
  - Timer
  - PALS rules
  - Student assignment chart
  - Scripts for training
  - Other training materials (see manual)
  - Pen/marker to mark additional points
- Student Materials
  - Book
  - PALS bookmark
  - Point sheets
  - Question card
  - Correction card
  - Pencil
  - Folder (labeled)

Student Materials

Selecting Appropriate Texts

- Text should be at weaker reader's level
  - No more than 10 errors per 100 words
- Each pair may read from DIFFERENT text
  - Within the pair, students read the same text

Selecting appropriate texts is critical to the success of PALS

The header features a dark background with several educational icons: a stack of books, a row of colored pencils, a yellow triangle, and a blue square. To the right, the letters 'D', 'A', 'I', and 'S' are displayed in large, bold, white font, each enclosed in a colored square (green, red, brown, and blue respectively).

Appropriate Text Suggestions

- Age-appropriate materials
- Leveled texts
- Chapter books
- High-interest, low-vocabulary texts
- Appropriate popular magazines
- Career-related texts
- Expository text—content area materials
- News articles

The header features a dark background with various school-related items. On the left, there are stacks of books and a row of sharpened pencils. To the right, the word 'READS' is written in large, bold, white letters, with each letter contained within a colored square: 'R' in blue, 'E' in green, 'A' in red, 'D' in brown, and 'S' in blue.

When Everyone Reads the Same Text

- Assign pages ahead of time
- Review vocabulary words before they begin reading
- Student who finished the assigned reading may read books that are at the weaker reader's level

Monitoring Students

- Watch to see:
  - Are students following the routines?
  - How good is the feedback they give?
  - How strong are their main idea statements and retellings?
  - How good are their predictions?

Monitoring is your most important job once students have started PALS!

Next Steps

1. If you haven't obtained a manual, I highly recommend purchasing one, and begin reading it ($40; <http://kc.vanderbilt.edu/pals/order.html>)
2. Pair your students using current reading data
3. Organize your classroom for PALS
4. Prepare PALS materials
5. Select texts
6. Look out for a brief email survey to share questions you'd like addressed in the next session
7. Join us for Session 2 on October 19!
